

EVENING BULLETIN.

DAILY EXCEPT SUNDAY.
ROSSE & McCARTHY,
Proprietors.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 10, 1895.

Warmer weather in northwest portion; west winds.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND's enemies took great delight in circulating the contemptible story started by that fellow Lansing, who is said to be a preacher. Papers who have been opposing the President for years spread it broadcast, but they don't seem so anxious to publish Lansing's retraction and apology. They belong to Lansing's class.

THE REV. J. J. Lansing, who went out of his way a few days ago to malign President Cleveland by charging him with drunkenness, now comes to the front with a retraction of what he said and tries to apologize for his contemptible slurs. It looks very much like Lansing took this method to gain a little notoriety, but in gaining the notoriety he has gained the contempt of all fair-minded people irrespective of party. A minister disgraces his calling when he spends his time circulating such stories.

"THE Democrats of Kentucky are seriously, and for the time being hopelessly, divided upon the money question," says the Cincinnati Tribune. The Tribune and other Republican papers would like very much to see the money question an issue in the approaching State contest, but the Democrats are certainly wise enough to let it alone until the proper time to consider it. But when it comes to this money question, the Tribune knows, or ought to know, that the Republicans are just as hopelessly divided as the Democrats.

Song, "A Terrible Tale," by Misses Mae Pogue, Chatte Killgore and Nellie Burke.

"The Salem News," read by Miss Nellie Burke, edited by Reuben Duncan and Albert Williams.

At the close of the exercises Miss Mary Robinson was presented with a beautiful gold medal, given by her teacher for prompt attendance.

Special mention must be made of the recitations of Misses Chatte Killgore and Lillian Conley; the manner in which they were delivered was a credit to both teacher and pupil. The evening was indeed a most enjoyable one, and we congratulate the accomplished young teacher on her success.

ORANGEBURG.

The school entertained a fair audience with closing exercises last Friday evening. "The Literary Club" was an instructive play. "Reviewing for Examination" was well rendered. "My Garden" by Wm. Ford was so well recited that he was called upon to repeat it. Samuel Kennan and Master Ford Pollard and Leslie Coulter did justice to their recitations. A few remarks followed by F. T. Dickson and Rev. Jas. H. Wallingford which were words of encouragement to both teacher and pupils.

OUR HEROES.

BY MISS LIZZIE J. MALTBY.

Over our Nation's heroes the same flag floats above, And throughout the Union shall be harmony and love. The book of "National Remembrance" preserves each name, And every Decoration Day proudly renews their fame. As the time for this National memorial draws near, In every town and village their names become more dear, How serenely they sleep after a toilsome day "Under the roses the bine—under the lilies the gray." Those old time heroes whose remembrance we revere Were loyal to the public good—ever to them most dear. In their own loved Virginia rest Madison and Monroe, Where the bright waves of the Chesapeake roll below; In the groves of the Hermitage, the birds warble their pean Above noble Andrew Jackson—the lion-hearted Tennessean; While above Carolina's orator—John C. Calhoun, so gifted, The plumed palmetto neds—the bine sky is rifted.

"By the flow of the infant river," Where the leaves in the breezes quiver Missouri's great statesman, Thomas Benton, is taking

The long sleep, the sleep that knows no wakening. I wish I might gather the honor due These heroes of ours so noble and true:

Whose voices never silent against evil and wrong,

But for what they deemed right ever earnest and strong.

This dark pathway let none fear to tread The beaten path of the glorious dead.

Where the Susquehanna, river of romance, is flowing

As it laps its banks to the ocean going,

James Buchanan, the great diplomatist, is sleeping

Where the waves forever advancing and retreating,

Lull with their murmur low and sweet, The sigh of winds—the tread of feet.

How heroic and gifted were Webster and Clay, The two greatest orators of their day,

How all along the line these words are sent,

"I would rather be right than President,"

While Webster's words will be forgotten never,

"Independence now and independence forever,"

When remembering these men of surpassing skill!

To the heart of every American, it sends a thrill,

And another of Virginia's master-spirits grand,

As brilliant and illustrious as any in the land,

Was Patrick Henry! How they listened with bated breath

To the bold cry of "Give me liberty or give me death."

He left a legacy to the world more valuable than gold—

The influence of such a life cannot in words be told;

For the song that's sweetest is the song that's never sung,

That lies at the heart of the singer too grand for mortal tongue.

In peace or in war—on land or sea—

These men were heroes and ever will be,

Many new recruits answer the Great Captains call,

While myriads of names echo in garden and hall,

Generals Grant, Sherman, Jackson and Lee

Music we'll breathe flowers wreath for thee,

And as the gray and blue in the eastern sky is found

With equal love we'll scatter flowers over each lowly mound.

The innumerable host in heaven is garnered each name:

While on the Nation's corner stone in memorial they remain.

May a triumphant history upon our banner be a record of advancement, of peace and liberty.

May it ever float above us when our life-work is complete.

From the army of the right—may we never dare retreat.

And when the glorious morning dawns, just at the break of day,

We'll meet this Kingly Band, who wore the bine and the gray.

Washington, Ky.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

MRS. MARY CAROLINE COX.

One of Maysville's Christian Women Answers the Summons of the Death Angel.

Mrs. Mary Caroline Cox, relict of the late George Cox, died yesterday at 10:30 a. m. at her residence on West Front street. A little over a week ago, Mrs. Cox was stricken with pneumonia, and, enfeebled by old age, she fell an easy victim to the disease. Her condition had been critical since Sunday.

Deceased was a native of Baltimore and was born April 24, 1815. Her maiden name was Davis. She was married twice, her first husband being Jacob R. D'Immitt who went to California during the excitement over the discovery of gold in 1849, and who lost his life in the far-off West. On November 12, 1854, she was united in marriage to the late George Cox, who passed to his reward in 1881. She leaves no children. Mrs. Cox had been a member of the Baptist Church sixty years, and was a most liberal contributor to the building of the present handsome house of worship on Market street. Her life was full of deeds of kindness and her heart was ever open to the appeals of the needy and suffering. In her death, Maysville loses one of her noble Christian women.

The funeral will occur to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock at the residence, with services by Rev. Robert G. Patrick. Interment in the Maysville Cemetery.

Base Ball.

The opening of the championship season of professional base ball at the Cincinnati Park on April 18th promises to attract the largest crowd ever on the grounds. The Maysville "fans" will no doubt be on hand to see the opening game. The BULLETIN acknowledges the receipt of a complimentary.

KENTUCKY CROPS.

The Outlook for the Farmers is Brightening, and a Better Feeling Prevails.

In his initial report this spring the State Commissioner of Agriculture says: "The outlook for the farmer at the beginning of last winter, was not very encouraging—the long drought had, in many places, ruined his prospect for a crop, and the continued dry weather made it almost impossible until very late to sow his small grain for another year, consequently the plant was very small and tender to encounter a long hard winter. They were most all overstocked with all kinds of farm stock, and it was a questionable matter with them, on account of the low price, as to whether they would buy feed for them or allow them to rough it as best they could—on account of which a great many correspondents write that there have been some horses and cattle and a great many sheep died."

"But the prospects for all kinds of stock and farm products are brightening, and the farmers are feeling better. The crop of small grain has come through the winter much better than was expected; the demand has increased, prices have advanced and the indications are that the price will be better this harvest than last. Cattle, hogs and sheep are all in demand, and at remunerative prices.

"As to the present condition of wheat, nearly all correspondents write the plant is small but looks thrifty, and is beginning to show up pretty well. There is some difference of opinion as to whether the snow was advantageous to the wheat—usually wheat will make some growth under snow, but the weather was so intensely cold that the ground froze under the snow, which stopped all growth and caused some wheat to perish; but it is reasonable to suppose that a larger portion would have died had it not been covered by snow."

A LITTLE THING.

Such a little thing hides the sun, sweetheart.
Such a little thing hides the sun,
A sudden cloud or a wall of mist.
And we mean "The day is done!"

Such a little thing hides the sun, sweetheart,
The top of waving tree,

A summer shower, of the sunshine born,
A mist that dips in the sea.

Such a little thing hides the sun, sweetheart,
But isn't it joy to know

That the sun still shines behind the clouds;

That the soft, warm winds will blow

Till the wall of mist shall be blown aside

And the shadows flee away,

And the sun behind the western hills

Gives promise of a brighter day?

CONDITION OF CROPS.

The Weather Bureau's Review For the Week Ending April 8.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The weather bureau in its weekly review of weather crop conditions for the week ended April 8, says:

Upon the whole the week has been very favorable. Corn planting has progressed rapidly, under favorable conditions in the southern states, where a large proportion of the crop is in the ground and some has come up. Preparations for corn planting have been made in the middle Atlantic states, and planting has begun in Missouri and Kansas.

Winter wheat has greatly improved during the week in Illinois and is in good condition in Michigan, Missouri and eastern Kansas. But less favorable reports are received from Minnesota and Wisconsin, where it is reported as badly winter killed; in Nebraska the crop has suffered from drought and high winds.

Spring wheat seeding is well advanced in Minnesota and South Dakota, and while some seeding has been done in North Dakota, the work has been retarded by dry weather.

Cotton planting has been pushed forward in Louisiana, and has continued under favorable weather conditions in Texas, a little planted in Arkansas and some in the southern portions of Georgia and Mississippi; planting will begin in Alabama in a few days.

Oat seeding is progressing rapidly in Ohio, and nearly the entire acreage of this crop has been sown in Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and Missouri; seeding has begun in West Virginia, and is well advanced in Maryland, New Jersey, Minnesota and South Dakota.

The general outlook for fruit is very favorable, no serious damage having yet been done by frost.

Rain is badly needed in Oklahoma, and more would be beneficial in Missouri, Ohio, Minnesota and North Dakota.

Three deaths, two women and one child, have so far resulted. Steps have been taken to prevent the spread of the disease and to care for the affected persons.

Phenomenal Rainfall.

RALEIGH, April 10.—Heavy damages to bridges by floods continue. The rainfall was phenomenal, particularly at Chapel Hill, where almost five inches fell in 12 hours. Both the Cape Fear and Roanoke rivers are four feet above the danger line, and rising rapidly. The Seaboard air line damages have been repaired, and trains are again running regularly.

Cincinnati Tobacco Market.

Furnished by the Cincinnati Leaf Tobacco Warhouse Company:

The receipts and offerings have been quite liberal, and the sales have been quite satisfactory to most of the sellers. The market has been uniform in prices, causing less rejections than is usual on a fluctuating market. Some very good tobacco has been offered, and while they look large in proportion to most of the offerings, we think they should go even higher, taking into consideration the size quantity in the crop, and may profit a great deal by what we anticipated a month ago. The good red flannels have advanced and closed very firm, and even grades are steady at full quotations, while the low grades, green and nondescripts, are still low, and we see no future prospect for any particular improvement on these grades, as the quantity is in excess of the demand. There have been liberal offerings of old stock, and when there is any character showing sweetnes they have done well. For the last month let them go, but those which are funkied are in bad repair and sell very low. The season is advancing, and we expect warm weather in the near future, and we wish to caution those holding the new crop in the market to watch the same carefully, as it will go into a sweet rapidly and will soon damage.

The weather being favorable for farmers to commence spring work the receipts will probably be light, and it is a good opportunity for those having their tobacco ready and on the market to sell while offering a high price.

We give some of the sale made the past week: At the Globe House, E. P. Pogue, 1 bushelhead new at $14. Mastin & Reeves, 4 bushelheads new at $10.50 and $15. L. M. Marshall, 4 bushelheads old Mason County at $10.75, $11.50, $12 and $14.25 average $12.12. W. N. Marshall, one bushelhead new at $16. At the Miami House, J. T. Prather sold 3 bushelheads new at $7, $7.95, $12.75, $13.75, $13.75 and $14.50. J. W. Osborne, 3 bushelheads new at $11.50, $14.75 and $14.75. J. T. Prather, 5 bushelheads new at $14.75, $11.75, $11.50 and $11.75. W. L. Sharp, Sharpsburg, 65 bushelheads new at from $10 to $17.50.
